

Prevent Extremism and Radicalisation

What is the PREVENT strategy?

PREVENT is a government strategy designed to stop people becoming terrorists or supporting terrorist or extreme causes. The PREVENT strategy covers all types of terrorism and extremism, including the extreme right wing, violent groups and other causes.

How does the PREVENT strategy apply to schools?

From July 2015 all schools have a duty to keep children safe from radicalisation and extremism. This means we have a duty to protect them from extreme and violent views in the same way that we protect them from drugs or gang violence. In school, we can provide a safe place for children to discuss these issues so they have a better understanding about how to protect themselves.

What does this mean at Franche Community Primary School?

Many of the things we already do in school to help our children become positive, happy members of society also contribute to the PREVENT strategy, these include:

- The encouragement of open discussion throughout the school, particularly in PSHE lessons.
- Challenging prejudices and racist comments.
- Developing critical thinking skills and a strong, positive self-identity.
- Children are taught to listen to others with tolerance whilst discussing their own opinions. They are taught to respect the views of others and other ways of life.
- Exploring other cultures and religions and promoting diversity through for example Religious Education and visiting different places of worship to foster religious and cultural tolerance.
- In ICT lessons children are taught to question what they read on the internet.
- Children are encouraged to talk to a trusted adult about things that worry or confuse them.
- Promoting the spiritual, moral, social and cultural development of ALL pupils, as well as British Values such as democracy.

We will also protect children from the risk of radicalisation, for example by using filters on the internet to make sure they cannot access extremist and terrorist material, or by vetting visitors who come into school to work with pupils.

How does PREVENT relate to British values?

British values include: democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty and mutual respect, and tolerance (acceptance) of different faiths and beliefs.

Isn't my child too young to learn about extremism?

The PREVENT strategy is not just about discussing extremism itself, which may not be suitable or appropriate for younger children. It is also about teaching fundamental British Values such as tolerance, respect, democracy and the rule of law. School staff ensure that all discussions are appropriate for the age and maturity of the children involved.

Is extremism a risk in our area?

Extremism can take many forms. It can be linked to politics, religion, colour of skin or nationality. Therefore, we will try to give our children the skills to protect them from any extremist views they may encounter, now or later in their lives.
